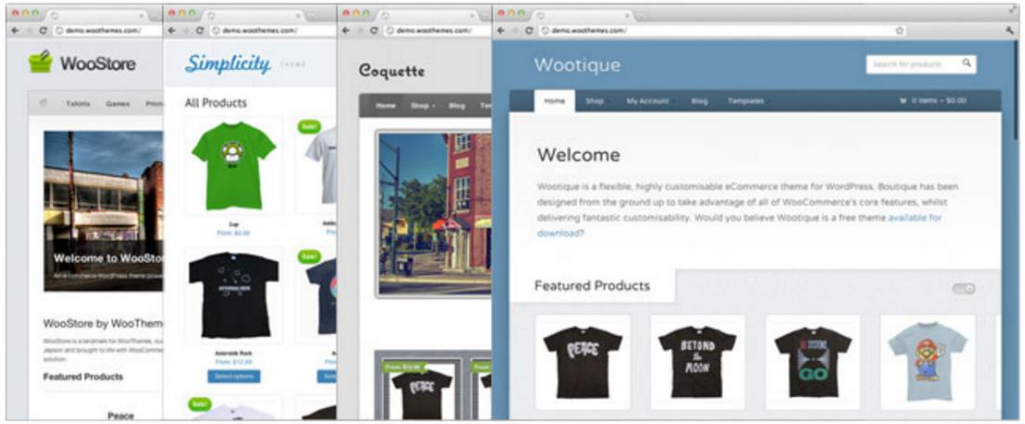
WooCommerce Has Arrived

September 27, 2011 in Team news, WooCommerce.



With much excitement, pride, and anxiety after such a long journey we can finally happily announce the release of WooCommerce.

For the last month, since the announcement of WooLabs/WooCommerce, Mike and Jay have been working like men possessed tinkering with every piece of code, adding valuable new core features, coding and collaborating on payment gateway, product and shipping extensions, and of course working on some beautiful themes.

WooCommerce Connect

Although what you see today is a plugin, the goal for WooCommerce Connect is to be a fully integrated part of WooCommerce core. To get us from feature plugin to core, WooCommerce Connect development is now in ALPHA - this means that you should expect frequent and sometimes large changes as features are added. During ALPHA testing, we'll be fixing problems and working to launch a feature-complete BETA. Successful BETA will culminate in a PR for inclusion into a future WooCommerce release.

We do not recommend you use this ALPHA software on a production site.

The emphasis for initial release of WooCommerce Connect is shipping simplified. We are providing a Shipping Zones-compatible USPS shipping method and, coming soon, a Shipping Zones compatible Canada Post shipping method. Shipping Zones are an exciting new feature of WooCommerce 2.6.

Our USPS shipping method fetches rates for customers' carts in real time from the USPS server. No USPS account is needed - you can use the default one if you like.

There are many ways to contribute – reporting bugs, feature suggestions, and fixing bugs. For full details, please see CONTRIBUTING.md
